A REMARKABLE
CANADIAN DEVELOPMENT

(E. L. Chicomot)
The peculiarity of Canadian conditions has resulted in a unique development of aviation. The establishment of passenger and mail services were not practicable in a country of so few and such widely scattered centres of population. Instead, from the very first the airplane was devoted to the greatest national service, the conservation and exploitation of the immense natural resources which constitute the country's hope of future greatness. No country, for instance, can approach Canada in the use of the plane in protective forest patrol. The Dominion record is unsurpassed.

In the field of aerial survey and map-

ing. However, the most important phase of aeronautics which is developing in Canada is the use of aircraft in mineral exploration and development. As a consequence, it is predicted that the Canadian mining engineer and geologist will find more mineral deposits in the next five years than have been discovered in the last half century.

Though Canada had a mineral production valued at $200,000,000 in 1927, her mineral era is but beginning. But a relatively minute part of the country's tremendous area has not yet been prospected, and the interest exhibited in mining possibilities today by capitalists from many countries forebodes immense developments in many far flung sections.

The first regular aerial service to be established in Canada was into the wilderness of a new mining camp. It revolutionized preliminary mining development. It substituted a journey of less than an hour spent in comparative comfort in the air for five arduous days of canoe paddling through a forest area, infested by mosquitoes and black flies. But it actually did a great deal more.

From its base at Hallsbury, the company undertook to drop passengers or express in any part of the vast open country. There was no lake, a condition easily met, since the area is dotted with lakes. It carried an average of 30 engineers and prospectors a week; it supplied this remote camp with fresh fruit and vegetables regularly; the ship of the air transporting freight of every imaginable description—dynamite, lumber, iron piping, drills and gasoline, and on its homeward trips mineral samples for assay.

When gold was discovered at Red Lake in Ontario and, following a rush, a new camp came into existence, it seemed the most natural thing that a similar service should be established there, flying from the nearest point of railway contact. With the confidence inspired by the Quebec service, it was perhaps an even bigger factor in the advancement of the Ontario camp. Flying boats took in passengers daily, so that in record time hundreds of claims were staked out.

When last year a much belated interest developed in the mining fields of Manitoba, the quality resulted in a general development, there again being immediately called upon to play its part. Some quite remarkable work was done in the transport of mining machinery and equipment under extremely dangerous and difficult winter conditions. This summer there are 15 planes operated by the company in Manitoba's mining belt, pushing the province's mineral industry rapidly ahead.

These services have been of immense value in many ways than one. They were largely responsible, for instance, in developing and perfecting the ski-runner for taking off and landing on ice and snow. They also produced the collapsible canoe, which can be transported handily by plane, today considered indispensable to northern flying. They prepared the way for a development of yet greater scope, in which the plane enters upon the work of exploration and prospecting which leads to mineral discoveries.

The first mineral prospecting expedition by plane ever planned was undertaken by a syndicate of capitalists in the spring of 1925, having for its object exploration work in the unexplored regions of Northern British Columbia and the Yukon. The territory to be flown over was completely isolated, largely unexplored, and very inaccurately mapped.

Exploration was carried on in many directions, by flying on radii from the base at Dease Lake, and engineers were amazed at the manner in which aerial transport speeded up prospecting. To quote one instance: it was

Acids in Stomach
Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try taking aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bismarck Magnesia and take two spoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This soothes the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no nausea, gas or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

necessary to transport seven men with sufficient supplies and mining equipment to last a month a distance of 200 miles. The whole party and implements were transferred in a day, whereas by any other means of transportation such an expedition, if not altogether impracticable, would have taken at least a year. Another trip, which Indians took 20 days to make, the plane accomplished in three hours. At the conclusion of the summer's satisfactory work the party was flown back to civilization without mishap.

The following year an Alberta syndicate instituted an expedition into the Northwest Territories. The region in which prospecting was prosecuted is known as the "Wild Spot of Canada." An entirely satisfactory summer was spent in taking the engineers on radial prospecting trips, all of which were accomplished without mishap of any kind. An immense volume of work, quite impossible of carrying through with the airplane, was successfully completed.

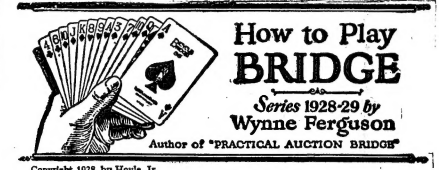

The first movement toward organized mineral prospecting by airplane was taken last winter with the formation of the Northern Aerial Mineral Explorations. The company intends, thoroughly to explore the mineral wealth of the north by organizing the country from an exploration and prospecting standpoint as completely and efficiently as a large commercial concern does, with field offices, branches and field forces. Plans will be equipped with aircraft at centres throughout northern Canada. About 20 field parties will be sent out. The company is supported by many outstanding men in the mining industry in Canada. Recently the Canadian Parliament has granted to another syndicate the right to explore by airplane for minerals on an area of about 5,000 square miles 200 miles north of Port Churchill and inland. The territory is remote from civilization, with a few wandering tribes of Eskimos its only inhabitants, no mining man ever having been in there or likely to go in in the ordinary way for many years.

Similar developments are to be noted all over the mining field. Recently a company was organized in the Rouyn gold field of Quebec, with plans at a central point available for prospecting or for aerial prospecting parties into distant sections. A mining company in northern Manitoba recently acquired a plane whereby its management can expeditiously visit the various sections where its developments are located. A mining promoter in the area owns his own plane and flies from his home in Florida to the northern area to visit the various mines in which he is interested. Quite definitely the era of the airplane in the Canadian mining industry has opened, and having regard to its immense potentialities it cannot be doubted that this will develop into a leading field of aeronautics in which the Great Dominion will have no rival.—Reader's Digest.

ARTICLE No. 6

It has been said of a sound preemptive or shut-out bid that if defeated it saves game at small expense by preventing the opponents from showing the suit that would have produced game between the combined hands. This principle is well illustrated by the following hand:

Hearts—Q, J, 7, 6, 2
Clubs—none
Diamonds—J, 7, 3
Spades—A, 8, 5, 4, 3

Hearts—A, K, 9, 5
Clubs—K, J, 9
Diamonds—K, Q, J
Spades—K, Q, J

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid five clubs and A and Y passed. B was in a peculiar position. The bid of five clubs undoubtedly indicated a front hand, particularly in view of the many apparent tricks in B's hand. He was hardly strong enough, however, to bid five hearts and yet his hand was too strong to pass. The five club bid looked like a trap, but B had no option except to double.

Z passed and A should have bid five hearts. He should have made a bid rather than five spades, so that he could shift to five spades if the five hearts were doubled. His hand was badly distributed as a trick taker, particularly in view of Z's five club bid. Therefore he should have figured that B had a sound double, they should stand a good chance to make five hearts or five spades and to score game and rubber. On the other hand, they couldn't hope to defeat the five club bid more than a trick or so. Unfortunately, however, A didn't properly consider the facts. He passed, Z played the hand at five clubs doubled and made a little slam. His hand was as follows:

Hearts—none
Clubs—A, Q, 10, 8, 7, 5, 3
Diamonds—A, 10, 8, 6, 5, 2
Spades—none
All that he lost was one club—his partner, Y, had a side-suit—diamond and three trumps. Be on the lookout when your opponents make these shut-out bids and don't let them save game at a small expense or prevent you from bidding your suit if you feel justified in doing so. A B could have made five club in no trump or a little slam in hearts, so Z's preemptive bid, in this instance, was a big winner.

Answer to Problem No. 5

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid three spades and all passed. A opened the jack of diamonds which held the trick. He then led the ten which Z trumped in his own hand. How should Z now play the hand to make game? Solution: Z should lead a low spade, winning the trick in Y's hand with the jack. Y should then lead his last diamond, trumping in Z's hand with a low spade. Z should now lead another spade and win the trick in Y's hand with the queen. Y should now lead the queen of clubs which B should cover. Z then should win the trick with the ace.

Z should now lead three rounds of trumps, discarding two hearts from Y's hand and one club. B must discard one diamond, one heart and one club. He cannot discard more than one club or Z can lead a club and make two club tricks in Y's hand. Z can now force B in the lead by playing the three hearts from his hand and the seven of hearts from Y's hand. B must win this trick with the ten of hearts. After B plays the ace of hearts, he must lead clubs up to Y's hand, thus giving Z game and rubber.

Note that B could have foreseen this force play and prevented it by discarding the ten of hearts. A's nine of hearts would, therefore, have prevented Z from forcing the lead in B's hand. This problem was given to show how to take advantage of an opponent's mistake. Some of the best plays made are possible because an opponent gives the opportunity; so if you get the chance, take advantage every time.

If diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead, can Y Z win all the tricks against his defence? Think this over and compare with the answer that will be given being considered, health services to gether with the others. The public money which is devoted to health work represents an investment in disease prevention and health promotion. It is a well established fact that the proper expenditure of certain sums of money will bring about a reduction in the amount of illness and the number of deaths. There is, of course, a limit to the reduction, and that limit is set by the knowledge which we possess. We can deal successfully with many diseases because we know enough about them to combat them successfully. With regard to others, we are not as yet able to do so because we have not the knowledge which would enable us to conquer them.

When the question of health expenditure is considered, every citizen should realize clearly that if reasonably sufficient funds are provided, he is actually, through his taxes, buying community health insurance for his own protection and for that of his family, his friends and his fellow citizens. If a reasonable amount of money is not spent on health work, then the reverse occurs, and each person—adult and child—will be needlessly exposed to the dangers of preventable diseases. The burden and expense of disease does not fall evenly. Someone may feel that he has saved a dollar or two and escaped sickness, but some individual, some family, will have the burden and expense. The community may have to pay out far more in the care of orphans, or in hospital bills, than the health department costs. One epidemic costs many times the upkeep of an adequate health department.

Money should not be wasted; it should be properly spent. Every citizen and county should have sufficient money for health work, and should see to it that it is properly spent.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

THE LITTLE BOY WHO WAS LEFT OUT

The little fellow chanced to see A picture of his ma and me And sister Jane within a frame— "Was taken long before he came."

He gazed at him and wondered why. We stared at him and wondered why. "What's wrong," I asked, "that you should have?"

Before that picture on the wall? Come here, you lovely little child! And sit upon your daddy's lap, And tell him why this flood of tears So very suddenly appears?"

"It isn't right, it isn't fair," He sobbed, "My picture isn't there." And then he started in to shout; "Why was it that you left me out?" Nor did it soothe his grief that morn To tell him that he wasn't born.

"It June was born, why wasn't I?" To that I couldn't make reply. "I don't see why you didn't wait, You must of known that I'd be late."

I found it was too great a task To answer questions he could ask.

LEARNING LESSONS

(Walt Mason)
A man is always learning, but learning little says, if he's forever spurning the lesson life conveys. Experience is teaching such truths as we should heed, if we are bent on reaching an honored place, with neighbors here and there, such practice brings us sorrow and fills our lives with care. For people who are lending a clock, a dinner horn, will think we are offending, they'll look on us with scorn. We soon shall be acquiring a very punk renown, and find that we are tiring the people of the town. Far better tie to suffer for coffee, when or ground, than ask some other dunder to lend us half a pound. Far better pine for mustard than borrow it next door, and see your neighbor flustered and voting us a bore. All people in their senses know borrowing's a sin, and yet their old offences they keep up, with a grin. Experience has told us that honesty is best, and yet you may behold us make honesty a jest. This country's full of fakers who have no due respect for all the statute makers who would their sins correct. The men of crooked dealing small peace or comfort find, they evermore are feeling that coppers trail behind. The money they are getting dissolves like wreaths of snow; their lives are full of fretting and weariness and woe. Life's truths have been expounded until we know them well; in them we have been grounded by lessons stern and fell; there's nothing can dislodge them, before our gaze they rise, and yet we try to dodge them as though we thought them lies.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES

(The Research Bulletin)
There is a growing interest in the establishment of Public Libraries in several of the towns and smaller centres in the Province. In a few places such libraries have been operating for several years. Other places are later arrivals in the library work. Usually the burden of opening up and conducting a public library in places outside of the cities has fallen upon the shoulders of enthusiastic workers who had a vision of providing a real service in the literary field for the benefit of their fellow citizens and invariably their activities have been appreciated. Some of these public libraries have been established under the provisions of the Public Libraries Act and their maintenance largely provided for through the general taxation of the municipality. In other places a small fee charged members of the library, augmented by a grant from the municipality has been sufficient to cover operating expenses and purchase new books. In any case, it does not take much initial capital to get a library going in a town or village. A "book shower" at the commencement will bring a surprisingly large number of desirable books for a nucleus of reading material and the library is off to a good start. In nearly every town or village there is some part of a municipal building where possibly the council would provide free room, heat and light. For a time a volunteer librarian will be available. If there is no library in your town get one going and the appreciation of the reading public will soon be in evidence.

Mr. Barton's License

"How would you like to try your hand at trout fishing?" asked John Barton of his wife. There was a wistful note in his voice. "It's just the kind of morning to make 'em bite."

Mrs. Barton seated by the living-room window, looked up from her knitting with a smile. As a matter of fact, she did not want to go out at all. Why should a comfortable matron want to leave that inviting room on a cloudy May morning to tramp through rank grass and fight brush along Otter Creek? But the wistful note in her husband's voice and the longing look in his eyes carried Mrs. Barton back thirty years. She was a plump little girl, dressing her doll, and her only brother stood in front of her with his hand in his pocket, in punishment for some boyish misdemeanor, he had been forbidden to go out with the other boys.

"Come on and pitch for me, Laura," he pleaded. "A fellow has to play ball on a day like this, and I can't play baseball alone."

Boys did not differ much, she thought, whether they were curly-haired little brothers or dignified husbands with hair turning grey. On the last day of the preceding trout season Mr. Barton had been fined on a technicality and had lost his fishing license for a year. To be sure, no such miscarriage of justice had been intended. An over-scrupulous deputy warden had prosecuted the case because it was the only chance he saw of making his expenses that day, and because he delighted in seeing his name in the papers. The higher authorities had even upheld him, but even then Barton might have got a new permit to take out a new license had he let his friends petition Mr. Harwood, the fish and game commissioner, for it. But he was angry then, and declared that he would rather go without fishing for ten years than beg for what was his by right.

Now came this May morning with its lure afield. He forgot his anger, forgot his dignity, forgot everything in the world except that he wanted to go fishing and had no license to do so. It occurred to him suddenly that in their county and state a woman needed no license. Laura was free to fish wherever she chose. Why not teach her how to catch trout? Laura—bless her heart!—understood.

She smiled at him as she had once smiled at her brother and confessed quite as much interest in the art of trout fishing as she had then professed in the mysteries of baseball.

"You're the best wife in the world," her husband cried gratefully, "the very best! You always understand."

Laura Barton would have gone shark fishing for that. She carried his praise in the next hour while they tramped down the winding bank of Otter Creek through wet grass and dripping brush. Under his direction, she cast into every favorable spot. An occasional shimmer rewarded her efforts, but not a trout so much as nibbled.

"You are getting tired, Laura," he said regretfully when the low-hanging clouds began to loom. "Let's call it enough and go home."

Mrs. Barton was tired, and she cared no more about catching trout than the ordinary woman does. But in her ears still echoed her husband's words, "You always understand."

What was the use of beginning to play if she did not finish the game? "We've hardly begun yet," she declared. "I'm just getting interested. And I've set my heart on catching a trout."

He sent her a grateful look that made it no hardship for her to go on. They reached the mouth of a turbulent brook that made a great fuss and foam over emptying its braving waters into the creek. Beyond the foam was a deep, swirling pool that John Barton regarded with eager eyes.

"It's a long cast for you, Laura," he said. "Do you suppose you can make it? You're almost sure of a good trout if you do."

Her first cast fell far short of the desired spot, and her second one was little better. As she was preparing for a third effort a light, curtained car came into view on the road near by. The Bartons were far too much engrossed to notice it, but the driver of the car did not fail to observe them. A little farther up the road a high stone wall, overgrown with wild grapevines and shaded by elms and maples, made a perfect screen for his car. There he left it and stalked the absorbed couple.

Mrs. Barton had remembered her strenuous efforts at pitching ball and how she had finally won her brother's grudging approval. Surely she could do as much for this big, appreciative husband as for that domineering, grubby little boy! She made a supreme effort. The baited hook struck the centre of the pool! Instantly it disappeared, and the reel began to hum in a way that made the man's pulses sing.

"Play it out! Play it out!" he cried excitedly. "You've got him if you can only keep him."

Startled by the great tug, distrustful her inexperience, she tried to hand the pole to him. But his hands were deep in his trousers' pockets, with his nails digging into his palms.

"It's your fight," he said, "but you have got him hooked. It's just a question of playing him now. Hang on to the pole for your very life, and do just as I tell you with the reel."

Cautiously, obediently, Mrs. Barton managed that reel in accordance with her husband's directions. It seemed to her that there was a whale at the end of the line, and she could not hold it long. But her brother's scornful eyes when she had muffed a ball gazed back at her through the years. What if John should look at her like that? She grasped the pole tighter and wound the reel with steady hand.

At last she got her catch close to the bank. But just as she was getting ready to land it on a convenient bar of sand, the reel, with a whirl that made her jump, spun round, and there was suddenly no tug on the line. She turned to her husband with a little gasp.

"Oh, John, I've lost it after all!" His hands came out of his pockets but his face did not relax. He did not reach for the pole.

"Reel in what's left of the line," he ordered.

She began to do it dispiritedly. Of what avail the struggle and the effort, since she had met defeat at last? With startling suddenness the reel whirled again. The trout was still there; it had deceived her by making a quick turn. Back into his pockets went her husband's hands, and his nails dug deeper into the palms than before.

It seemed to Mrs. Barton that tug ging pole would tear her arms out, but she had no mind to lose the battle now! At last the strain relaxed, and under her husband's crisp directions she drew the exhausted fish on to the sand bar.

"You've done it, Laura!" Mr. Barton cried excitedly. "You've actually landed it!"

"What is it?" she asked, trying to share his exultation, but looking suspiciously at her flopping catch.

"What is it?" he repeated in surprise. "Do you mean to say that you don't know the season's trout when you see it?"

"A trout," she echoed in a frank big way.

"It's as big as you often see," he laughed, "at least in these waters. You've had beginner's luck."

In the excitement of the struggle neither of them had noticed that the drizzle had turned to rain. But with great drops pelting into their faces they could not fail to observe it now.

"You're just in time with your catch," he said anxiously. We must hurry home now and give you a chance at some dry clothes. You mustn't catch cold even for a trout like that."

"They hurried to the road, for they could walk faster than through the wet grass. In the shelter of the trees stood the curtained automobile, with its owner now in the driver's seat. The man lifted his cap to Mrs. Barton.

Mr. Barton started in surprise. "How long has he been here?" he muttered to himself.

"I'm going your way," the other man said pleasantly, "and I'll be glad to take you home. This is the kind of weather that you like to get people out of."

As Mrs. Barton accepted his offer she wondered a little at her husband's constraint. He was carrying both trout and pole, but it was she who replied when the driver complimented him on his catch. Barton himself did not open his mouth until they drove now his yard.

"You can run your car on to the barn door," he said then, "if you'd like to wait here until the shower is past."

"Thanks," the other replied. "I believe I will do that, if you don't mind."

Her husband's tone had convinced Mrs. Barton that something was wrong, and she watched both men narrowly.

"Well?" John Barton said belligerently to the driver of the car.

"Mr. Barton," came the answer slowly, "I didn't believe that either of you could do it. You've given me the surprise of my life."

"Just that," the other nodded. "I thought I was going to catch you fishing without a license. I was mistaken, and I beg your pardon."

John Barton's eyes lost their belligerent look. He held out his hand cordially.

"When a man comes as near not being mistaken as you did," he remarked dryly, "there's no need to say much about it."

They both laughed, and the tension was over.

"Thank you," said Barton, "I wish you would. I ought to have let the boys do it a month ago. And now, as it's really settled down to rain, come in and have dinner with us. My wife may be a green hand at catching trout, but she's past mistress of the art of cooking 'em."

The man hesitated and glanced at Mrs. Barton.

"I don't mind riding with a stranger," she remarked demurely, "especially to get out of the rain. But since we are to have the gentleman to dinner, John, don't you think that you ought to introduce him?"

"You've heard so much about him," he respected, smiling. "That I quite forgot that you weren't acquainted. This is Mr. Harwood, our county fish and game warden."

WHAT ARE YOU HERE FOR?

If you've never made another have a happier time in life,

If you've never helped a brother through his struggle and his strife, If you've never been a comfort to the weary and the worn,

Will you tell me what you're here for, in this lovely land of morn.

If you've never made the pathway of some neighbor glow with sun,

If you've never brought a bubble to some fellow's heart with fun;

If you've never cheered a toiler that you've tried to help along,

Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of song.

If you've never made a comrade feel the world a sweeter place,

Because you've lived within it and had served it with your grace;

If you've never heard a woman or a little child proclaim

A blessing on your bounty—you're a poor hand at the game.

COD LIVER OIL AND ITS USES

(By the Alex. Taylor Hatchery, Winnipeg.)

"It has been found that feeding 2 per cent of Cod Liver Oil in the mash of the breeding birds during the winter months, results in a five-fold increase in the anti-rachitis and fat A soluble vitamins.

When chicks are hatched from these eggs and absorb the rich yolk into their intestines, they are fortified against rickets, as far as outward symptoms are concerned for the first three weeks.

It pays to give the baby chicks a rich inheritance from their mothers, in their first feed, the yolk. And then, particularly if it is early in the season, go on and feed the chicks a little cod liver oil.

Here is what it does. When a chick is hatched, it has legs but no bone. The best you can call it is cartilage or gristle. Under natural conditions, the sunlight would pour down upon the chicks and the shorter rays, or ultra violet light, would enable the chick to utilize the mineral matter in its feed in developing the gristle into bone.

Under present day artificial conditions of rearing, especially early in the season, when chicks are indoors, they can't get the benefit of the sun's direct rays. Feed them as much mineral matter as you will, and their bellies will grow, but their legs won't harden.

They get "leg weakness" or rickets. Cod liver oil added to their ration, although it does not contain a bit of lime to make bone, contains the vitamins necessary to enable the body or organism of the chick to utilize the food elements in the rest of its ration and build a body frame-work that is hard and sound to support the growth of the muscles and tissues.

Feed 2 per cent cod liver oil to your breeders this winter and then 1 per cent to your early chicks next spring, and you will have better chickens, lose fewer of them and do away with the old bug-a-boo of leg weakness. A hen can produce up to the capacity only when she is fed so that all parts of the body are nourished.

Going east, the Imperial Limited No. 2 leaves Edmonton at 7 a.m. and reaches Wetaskiwin at 8:48. The west bound train from Montreal is due to arrive about 9:45 p.m. and reaches Edmonton at 10:50 p.m. Through passengers may be found here on either one of these trains as they do not stop at the smaller stations. BIBLE INSTITUTE NEWS
Two weeks have now passed since the opening of the Bible Institute for its fifth term, with sixteen students in attendance.
A blessed time is being spent in studying the deeper truths of God's Word, giving a firm foundation for a victorious Christian life in our Master's service. Classes here are from 9 a.m. until noon, study hours in the afternoon. Topics on dispensations, atonement and personal work, given by Revs. E. G. Hansell and O. Larson have been very inspiring and instructive.
All are welcome to our classes, also to the services at the Swedish Baptist church. Sunday school at 11 a.m., Young People's meetings at 7:30, and regular Friday and Sunday evening services at 8 o'clock. Other services during the week as announced later. Prayer and praise service at the school every Saturday evening. Come with your troubles to the Lord. We are looking forward to the coming of Rev. Lindholm of St. Paul, who is expected on Wednesday to take up duties as teacher.
Many kind friends show their interest in the work by their liberal giving to our welfare, for which we are very grateful.
Mrs. Aaron Peterson is kindly acting as cook, with the help of the students, who receive practical lessons in domestic economy.
In every way we are looking forward to a more blessed time than ever before in the history of our school, and at the close of the term may one and all, from the depth of their hearts, be able to say "It has been good for us to be here, for we have walked and talked with God, creating a closer fellowship with Him, and a desire to serve Him better."

FORMER BITTERN LAKE MAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT
His clothing caught in the moving belt of machinery at the Superior Laundry Monday morning, Herbert Heighinton, 12036 87th street, Edmonton, was whirled around suffering such injuries as resulted in his death a few hours later at the Royal Alexandra hospital.
According to a brother of the dead man, Heighinton was standing on the framework of a washing machine trying to fix the belt on the overhead shaft. The room was filled with steam and the machinery in motion. The brother was standing in the wash-room and hearing a noise from where he knew the other was working, he rushed for the switch and turned off the power.
Reaching the machine he found his brother lying on the floor, conscious, but with practically every stitch of his clothing removed. Aid was called and the man rushed to the hospital.

where it was found he had several broken ribs, ruptured intestines and internal injuries. Coroner Dr. Kellor stated that death resulted from injuries and shock at 2:00 p.m.
Heighinton was a married man with six children.
The late Mr. Heighinton is a son of J. H. Heighinton, who formerly operated the Camrose Steam Laundry. He was born at Bittern Lake and for a number of years was resident in that district. He was also a resident of Wetaskiwin for several years, when his father had the Wetaskiwin Steam Laundry. The funeral was held at Bittern Lake on Sunday, February 2, from St. Dunstan's (Anglican) church.

LIBERAL LEADER

ing that this would assist, in some measure, in paying a belated debt of gratitude to the aged and needy persons of this province, upon which all parties of the House were fully agreed.
Traditional pomp and circumstance characterized the opening of the third session of the sixth legislature of the Province of Alberta, which took place at 3 p.m. on Thursday. Seldom, if indeed ever, has the attractive and historic assembly chamber of the legislative building presented such a colorful and memorable scene as when His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Dr. William Egbert, escorted by the ceremonial guard, took what promises to be an epochal session off to its start.
Promptly at 2:45 p.m., His Honor Lieut-Governor Egbert arrived at the main entrance of the legislative building, with an escort supplied by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under Inspector P. B. Caulkin.

opportunity had been given to the C.N.R. to make the purchase.
When the Government cancelled its agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway and made a traffic agreement with the C.N.R., the latter road had every chance of appreciating the situation and the North country and had placed itself in a peculiarly strategic position to lead up to a sale. That it had not done so was no fault of the Government. When the Government on June 13 last wired the presidents of both lines the price-it would be prepared to accept for the roads, there had been no communication received from Sir Henry Thornton, "even though he had passed through this city a short time ago." In September, E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the C.P.R., had passed through and had made his offer, which had been accepted.
The basic criticism offered by the Liberal leader on the School Act, said the Premier, was that it made for centralization rather than decentralization. The conditions which made a new act desirable today, resulted from just such centralization.
The Premier hoped that in dealing with the School Act all sections of the House would forget partisanship and in such an important matter would work for the good of the people as a whole and the children, in attempting to devise a fit and proper system. He did not agree with the Liberal leader that the Act should be finally put into force this session, but if necessary should be delayed until such time as every opportunity could be given all to fully discuss it.
Dealing with electric power, the Premier said that as this was likely to be the subject of a separate discussion later in the session, such as could not have been the case if the Shaw amendment had been put and voted upon, he would defer many of his remarks until that time.
Had the Shaw amendment gone forward it would have meant that the Liberal leader would have won over his followers to a policy of public ownership, as his interpretation of the amendment was that, if the Government instituted a full and complete investigation of the power scheme, it would be tantamount to entering into a scheme of government control.

LARGE LIQUOR PROFITS FOR ALBERTA IN 15 MONTHS

Edmonton, Feb. 1—Liquor profits accruing to the province of Alberta during the year ending December 31, 1927, totalled $2,088,622.82, for the three months dating from January 1, to March 31, 1928, the profit was $523,886.82, and the total for the 15 months' period, from January 1, 1927 to March 31, 1928, reaching the high figures of $2,562,509.32, according to figures contained in the annual report of the Alberta Liquor Control Board, tabled in the legislature, Friday afternoon, by Hon. J. F. Lymburn, attorney-general.
The report shows an increase of $235,069.98 in profits for the whole of 1927 over the whole of 1926, when the profit reached a total of $1,803,552.25.
NO ALBERTA ACTION ON INSURANCE RATES
Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 2.—No action is proposed by the Alberta government in respect to automobile insurance rates, it is stated by Premier Brownlee, who, however, considers the Ontario matter a special case. The province is in a much stronger position, he points out than Alberta, so far as an investigation of this nature is concerned, for the reason that the head offices of the insurance companies are located there, making such an inquiry much more effective.

GROUNDHOG SEES SHADOW 6 WEEKS MORE WINTER?

"Six weeks more of winter," is the gloomy forecast of His Majesty the Groundhog, after coming out of his winter den Saturday and discovering his shadow.
For if the sun be shining and the shadow visible on Candlemas day, Mr. Woodchuck knows that for another month and a half winter still hold monarchial sway, and he creeps dully back to his domicile.

NEW BOILER ACT IN PROVINCE TO REDUCE DANGER

Edmonton, Feb. 2.—The mysterious "Boiler Act of 1927" which has been the object of much interest on the part of manufacturers all over the province, came to light Saturday morning, and although the bill was moved on the floor of the house Friday afternoon the printed bill was seen for the first time Saturday and copies were laid on the desks of all the members for their perusal when the house reconvenes Monday afternoon.
The bill was designed primarily for the purpose of reducing the danger to the engineers and operators of boilers of all kinds to a minimum and to allow the department of labor to keep in very close touch with the installation, operation and inspection of boilers of all kinds throughout the whole province. The bill contains 45 clauses of more or less technical nature.

CANADA HOLDING POSITION AMONG LEADING NATIONS

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—Canada's position among the leading commercial nations of the world in international trade continues to rank very high. World wide statistics are not yet available for the calendar year, 1928, but for the calendar year 1927, Canada occupied fifth position in import and export trade, and second position in exports and total trade per capita; third position in favorable trade balance and first position in favorable trade balance per capita. Inasmuch as Canada's total trade for 1928 shows an increase of $270,548,000, imports $135,200,000, and exports $135,348,000, her position in international trade in 1928 was well maintained.

REDUCTIONS IN CHARGE MADE BY CALGARY POWER CO.

Reductions in the "service charges" to consumers of the Calgary Power Co. in the towns of Blackie, Champion, Okotoks and Stavelay are announced in letters now in the mails to the mayor and councillors of these towns, officials of the power company stated Friday morning. Consumers at Champion and Blackie will be given a reduction of 20 cents per month while consumers at Okotoks will be given a similar reduction up to a certain point on consumption after which a reduction of ten cents will be given for each 150 watts of installed capacity. In the case of Stavelay, the reduction will be ten cents per month. These reductions are effective immediately. Reductions are declared to be the result of increased consumption as per agreements entered into between the towns and power company.

JUDGE HITS LEDUC'S SPEED BY LAWS.

In a judgment handed down Saturday morning, Mr. Justice Ford ruled that Leduc's speed bylaw was ultra vires of the town and inconsistent with the provincial laws.
His lordship pointed out that such a town bylaw might permit a greater speed than that authorized by law, namely a reasonable speed having due regard to circumstances, and it might also restrict speed to less than that permitted by law.

This judgment is the result of a test case brought by the Alberta Motor Association of the Leduc speed bylaw, from its association to determine the validity which many Edmontonians suffered.

Calgary also leads in the number of licenses issued during the year by a margin of nearly 1,500.

In connection with the amusement tax returns the following figures are interesting: Calgary theatre patrons purchased $78,376.11 worth of tickets, Edmonton was next with $68,826.09, Lethbridge $8,465.85, Medicine Hat $5,806.35, other places throughout the province $45,729.63, bringing the total revenue derived from this source to $207,204.04.

During the year 307 companies were registered and incorporated in Alberta under the Companies Act and the Foreign Companies Act respectively, with an aggregate capitalization of $27,809,120.

Owen Le P. Franklin, with the Cambrian Concert Co. in the United States, Wednesday evening, February 13th next, has played numerous concerts in London and was in great demand at the Queen's Hall. COARSE GRAINS POOL IS LIKELY Calgary, Jan. 30.—The important announcement was made at the offices of the Alberta Wheat Pool on Monday that the directors had now definitely decided to proceed with the formation of a coarse grains pool and that it would be operative for the 1929 crop.

At the last meeting of the delegates of the pool a recommendation was made that the directors should go ahead with the necessary arrangements for handling coarse grains, and this matter has in the meantime been receiving their close attention. The directors stated on Monday that it would be announced a little later on the actual kinds of coarse grains that would be dealt with. Probably these will be oats and barley. It was pointed out that a grower would have to be a member of the wheat pool in order to participate in the coarse grains pool.

It was mentioned at the offices of the pool that there had been a coarse grains pool in operation in Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the past three years and that these had met with considerable success. The present wheat pool machinery will be employed, it was stated, and the coarse grains will not necessitate any new organization. The central selling agency will handle the sales.

Provincial Weekly News Bulletin

(Issued by Publicity Commissioner, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Provincial Savings Certificates)

Popular. That Alberta Provincial Savings Certificates are recognized as a sound investment is indicated by the fact that sales during 1928 reached a total of $815,960 over and above all withdrawals. The net purchases during the year were more than double those of 1927. A report for the year by the Treasury Department places the total amount of outstanding savings certificates at $11,264,946.

Marked Increase in Coal Production. Coal production in Alberta in 1928 reached a new high level when 7,250,000 tons were mined throughout the province, according to figures recently announced by the Mines Branch. Good success is attending the campaign to popularize Alberta coal on the Ontario market and some 30,000 tons have already been shipped east under the $6.75 freight rate which has been in effect since January 15th.

This coal is being well distributed in Ontario and a large number of repeat orders have been received from dealers who state that the Alberta product is in good demand. An extensive advertising campaign is being carried on by Alberta coal operators through the Trade Commissioner's Office in Toronto, and it is expected that this market will be still further extended.

Southern Livestock Shipments Increased. Livestock shipments for 1928 from points along the Leithbridge railway division show a healthy increase over the movement in 1927 and emphasize the satisfactory condition of the industry in the southern part of the province. Figures compiled show that total shipments in 1928 reached 194,868 as compared with 174,964 for 1927.

A gain which is noted in the sheep shipments is accounted for by the distribution of large numbers of breeding ewes to farms in other parts of the province. Wool production in this section for the past season is estimated at $2,000,000. Very satisfactory returns having been received by the growers.

First Local Women's Bureau Formed. To the ladies of the Magrath district goes the distinction of having formed the first Alberta Women's Bureau unit in the province. The aim of this body, which has been organized under the Alberta Women's Bureau Act, is to centralize various community educational enterprises. Arrangements are being made to take advantage of the services provided to local associations of this nature by the Alberta Women's Bureau Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

New Settlers for Vermilion District. Some 200 families will be brought out this year to the Vermilion district under the Hudson's Bay and C.P.R. Land Settlement scheme, it is announced by E. H. Gamble, Canadian manager, Hudson's Bay Company Overseas Settlement Ltd. The first contingent is expected to arrive about March 15 and the remainder will be distributed over the following spring months.

Oil Production Sets High Figure. The steadily growing importance of Alberta's oil and gas fields is shown in figures published during the past week by the Western Oil Examiner of Calgary. The production of Alberta wells for 1928 is placed at 439,531 barrels as compared with 321,154 barrels in 1927. Of the 1928 production the Turner Valley Field contributed 410,033 barrels of naphtha and 70,784 barrels of crude oil, the remaining 6,174 barrels coming from the Wainwright field. The total production of natural gas for the province in 1928 is placed at 14,193,950 million cu. feet as compared with 12,933,801 million cu. feet in the previous year.

PROTEIN AND MINERAL SUPPLEMENTS FOR PIGS

(Experimental Farms Note) Feeding tests conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, indicate that pigs placed on a ration made up entirely of meal from the cereal grains tend to become unthrifty, and, as a result, make slow and comparatively expensive gains as compared with pigs whose rations are properly supplemented. The cereal grains are deficient in both protein and mineral matter. A certain amount of protein for body growth, and mineral matter for bone development must be supplied with the home grown cereals before maximum development of the growing pig can be attained. The addition of skim-milk or buttermilk to a cereal grain ration has been found to be the most satisfactory for supplying the necessary elements for the growth of bone and body but when these dairy by-products are not available, or available in limited quantities only, various combined protein and mineral supplements, and mineral mixtures are effective in speeding up gains and cutting down the amount of grain required to produce a hundred pounds of pork.

To obtain data relative to the value of protein and mineral supplements for growing pigs in dry lot, an experiment was conducted at the Lacombe Station during the spring and summer of 1928.

Six lots with ten pigs in each were used in this experiment. All lots were self fed the same basic ration consisting of oat and barley chop throughout the 120-day test. In addition, one group received buttermilk, another group tankage, a third group tankage and minerals, a fourth group minerals, a fifth group salt, and a sixth group received the meal ration without additions. Buttermilk was fed at the rate of 8 per cent of tankage at the rate of 8 per cent of the meal ration and salt mixed with the grain at the rate of 2½ pounds in 100 pounds of grain. The mineral mixture consisting of sliced coal 76 pounds, air slacked lime 3 pounds, salt 20 lbs, and sulphur 1 pound, was available at all times to the third and fourth groups from separate compartments of the self feeders.

The results of this test in terms of dollars and cents, valuing oats at 55 cents per bushel and barley at 75 cents per bushel, show that while butter-

OFFICIALLY KNOWN AS "WHEAT POOL"

With the approving of new bylaws, the special meeting of Alberta Wheat Pool delegates was brought to a close on Friday night.

The delegates voted in favor of changing the name of the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited to the Alberta Wheat Pool. It was stated this was because of simplicity as the organization was now known throughout the world as the Wheat Pool.

It was mentioned that the Manitoba and Saskatchewan pools may adopt a similar action.

The Kellogg anti-war treaty has been ratified by the Senate at Washington.

CHILDREN'S COLDS

are doubly dangerous after Flu

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is AFTER influenza. Then, more than ever, colds attacking a child's weakened system may lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, sinus trouble, abscess of the ear, mastoiditis, or even the dread meningitis.

Check Colds Without "Dosing"

A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Too much "dosing" further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the child needs nourishment more than ever. Internal medication should therefore be avoided, except on the advice of a physician.

As Vicks VapoRub is applied externally, it can be used freely at the first sign of a cold with no fear of upsetting even the most delicate stomach. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Vicks Acts 2 Ways at Once

(1) Its medicated vapors, released by the body warmth, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness, and thus helping the vapors to break up the congestion.

Of course, Vicks 2-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles as it is for those of children.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CLUB

The monthly social of the Young People's organization was held in the United church on Monday evening last. Interesting and novel contests, some of which tested memory and constructive powers were put on.
The names of some past officers in Alberta were a revelation. The artful way of referring to some ordinary articles was pitiful. The trip quality of some twisters. Refreshments were served and brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Earlier in the meeting some discussion took place concerning a tennis court, its cost and materials in construction. The topic will be resumed in two weeks' time, when it is proposed to have also a debate on the proposed changes in the School Act relative to the centralization of the power to choose and control teachers.

Owing to a popular entertainment taking place on Monday, the 11th, it was decided by vote to attempt no meeting of the society.

There was a good attendance at the picture show on Friday evening, when the historical setting of the events which led to the capture of Quebec were well portrayed, and the locations of the battles and plans were clearly explained and shown on the map. The splendid portraits of Wolfe and Montcalm, the British and French generals, and other prominent leaders, were good. The picture was interesting throughout, recording that eventful day, so important in the early history of Canada.

THINK IT OVER!

Four things a man must learn to do:
If he would make his record
true;
To think, without confusion,
clearly,
To love his fellowmen sincerely,
To act from honest motives purely,
To trust in God and Heaven securely.

—Henry Van Dyke.

START NOW, CHILDREN

Here's Lina Venable's awful threat of what you're eventually going to look like if you don't start right in now to make the kind of face you want:

"You owe it to your family
You owe it to the town;
No one should be compelled to see
Your face have on a frown.
And then when you grow older
Your friends look at your face,
And see in it your character
And read your growth in grace.
God gives to children faces
It is a joy to see;
But you'll have one you made yourself
When you are fifty-three.
As sure as eyes are windows
Through which the soul looks out,
Your face will tell to strangers
What you have been about."

"LITTLE THINGS"

Oh, it's just the little homely things,
The unobtrusive, friendly things,
The "won't-you-let-me-help-you"
things
That make our pathway light.
And it's just the jolly, joking things,
The "never-mind-the-trouble" things
The "laugh-with-me-it's-funny" things
That make the world seem bright.
For all the countless famous things,
Those wondrous record-breaking
things,
Those "never-can-be-equalled" things,
That all the papers cite,
Are not like little human things,
The "just - because - I - like - things"
things
That make us happy quite.
So here's to all the little things,
The "done-and-not-forgetting" things
Those "oh-it's-simply-nothing" things
That make life worth the fight.

—Grace Haines.

Here and There

A skin game.—Two young boys living 90 miles northwest of Edmonton started a coyote farm in 1927 by digging young coyotes out of the ground and confining them in a pen. They got 140 young animals and when their skins were mature sold them for $12 each.

A southern packing plant specializes upon horse meat for shipment to parts of Continental Europe where it is very popular. It has been suggested that the non-descript range horses straying about Southern Alberta be herded for packing purposes. It is a pity someone could not figure out a similar way of consuming some of the old motor cars that are loose on the highways.

Twenty oil burners measuring overall 97 feet in length and weighing 725,000 pounds have been ordered by the Canadian Pacific Railway and will be in passenger and freight service through the mountains this summer. Each of them will do the work of two or more of the older locomotives. They are the largest in the British Empire and will revolutionize transportation in the west, it is predicted.

Victoria is having a mid winter golf tournament open to members of the local clubs and to guests of the Empress Hotel, and the players won't have to play in mittens and fur coats either. In the east they have a game called winter golf that they play with bow and arrows on skins or snowshoes, but the golf at Victoria is the legitimate article.
The game is played the year round in the equable climate of the Pacific coast.

Unique and luxurious cars, differing from anything operated in this country before, will be carried by the two crack trains of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Trans-
Canada Limited between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, and the Mountainair, from Chicago to the Pacific coast. It has been announced. The cars will have bath rooms, valet service, lounge and smoking space, and a solarium, with vit-a-glass windows.

The sea is constantly productive of tales of adventure. A recent tale is that about Commander S. Robinson, O.B.E., of the Canadian Pacific Empire, of the Prince who turned his ship into the face of a hurricane and went 500 miles of his course to take aid to injured seamen on a storm tossed Japanese freighter. The great liner waited beside the freighter, which was badly battered by the huge waves and some members of whose crew had been injured, but found it impossible for boats to convey a doctor. After waiting for a day the master of the Japanese ship reported that he could make port, and the Empress of France continued on her interrupted voyage.

HILLSIDE

The Junior U.F.A. are having a picture show and Valentine box social on Friday evening, February 15. Ladies bringing boxes will be admitted free.
Gentlemen will be charged 25c, which will be refunded on the purchase of a box. A good time is assured.

E. R. Hoskins returned home Monday from Edmonton, where he has been receiving medical treatment.
Owing to the unfavorable weather, the dance on Friday night was not very well attended. Those who did attend report a most enjoyable time.

The committee wish to thank the West Liberty friends for turning out and helping to make the dance a success, also Thorne's orchestra of We-taskiwin for their splendid music.

The U.F.W.A. are holding their monthly meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. G. Young. All ladies are asked to be present, as an interesting program has been prepared.

The annual meeting of the Junior Wide-Awake U.F.A. was held at the home of William Marr. Charlie Robinson was elected president, Wallace Marr vice-president, and Wm. Marr secretary-treasurer. Final arrangements were made for the holding of a Valentine box social and moving pictures on Friday, February 15th.

H. G. Young left on Monday for Ponoka, where he will address a U.F.A. meeting, on Wednesday and Thursday he will represent the Hillside School Board at the annual Trustees Convention being held in Lethbridge.

The east and north roads to the school house are in splendid condition for cars.

The plans committee wish to announce a dance in the school house on Saturday evening next, February 9th.
A good time, with good music, is assured. Dancing promptly at 8 o'clock.

GETS $5,000 DAMAGES

In the supreme civil court at Edmonton on Tuesday, before Mr. Justice Walsh, Mah Yuen, an Edmonton Chinaman, was awarded $5,000 damages against Dan Knoll of Leduc, for the loss of an eye in a motor accident which occurred on the Edmonton-Calgary trail near Millet last October. The amount claimed was something over $16,000.

According to the evidence, Mah Yuen was driving north on the trail in a car owned by Mah B. Kim. It is alleged that Knoll attempted to pass them at a reckless speed without blowing his horn. The car of the Chinese was forced into the ditch and Yuen lost his eye from broken glass.
Mah Kim was awarded $44.90 for damages to his car. Yuen was also given medical expenses of $750.

Mr. Knoll was not represented by counsel and did not appear in court himself. W. R. Howson conducted the case for the plaintiffs—Leduc Representative.

POPULAR BRIDE ELECT
SHOWED BY FRIENDS

Miss Dorothy Wolcott, a February bride-elect, is being honored by showers and other social courtesies.

A few days ago Mrs. Richard Ballhorn was hostess to a bridge party, the guests being all members of the O.E.S. At the conclusion of the game the ladies were invited to return to first position and informed that a lucky number would be found under someone's chair. By happy accident, Miss Wolcott found the token and was the recipient of a dozen silver teaspoons from "The Star." In thanking the members for their kindly gift, she expressed appreciation of the cordial welcome tendered her when a newcomer and the sustained good fellowship since accorded by sister Stars.

On February 2nd, Misses Amy McCallum and Gertrude Sullivan gave a unique tea at the home of the former. Entertainment was provided by a guessing contest, "The Bride's Bouquet," and Miss Wolcott, the complimentary winner, received the prize, a pair of tall decorated candlesticks. Following the contest of dainty refreshments, she was handed a ribbon and told to follow it up. It ended at a large pink and white carton, containing more than a score of pieces of beautiful china, each accompanied by the donor's favorite recipe. A handsome Oriental jardiner contained a poem filled with sage advice, both witty and wise, contributed by "Cupid." The guest of honor made suitable acknowledgment of the choice gifts and fine spirit of friendliness bestowed, and hoped soon to welcome them all at Cold Stream Farm.

MONTHLY MEETING OF
WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Wetaskiwin Women's Institute was held on Thursday, January 31, in the Club rooms on Pearce street, with a good attendance, with some visitors, who are always welcome.

Mrs. H. Stewart, convener of Household Economics, had charge of the meeting and each member brought their favorite recipe.

Mrs. Harold Angus gave a piano selection, which was greatly appreciated. Mrs. Rodell gave an interesting talk on her trip to the Toronto Exhibition and also gave a demonstration on how to prepare a broiler, as was demonstrated by a member of the Ontario Poultry Association at the Toronto Exhibition.

JUDGMENT OF JUDGE LEES IS REVERSED

A judgment has been handed down in the Smith-Gable vs. Rappelle case. This was an action for commission on the sale of property and Judge Lees awarded Smith-Gable the sum of $200 and costs. This was appealed, and word was received this week that the decision of Judge Lees has been reversed, with costs for both courts.

ALBERTA LUTH. LEAGUE CON-FERENCE, PLEASANT PRAIRIE

On Sunday evening, February 3rd, the Luther League of the Young Folks of Alberta met for their fourth sitting in St. John's Ev. Lutheran Church. The service was conducted by Rev. E. G. Goss from Hay Lakes, who is the president of the Luther League. His message to the young folks was that their highest ideal should be their Saviour, Jesus Christ, and, as Paul the Apostle, they should be willing to give up everything for Christ, to retain His fellowship.

After the service the young folks were discussing what the congregation could do for the young folks, and on the other hand, what the young people should do for the congregation. On February 4th there was a long and interesting discussion on church music and on the work of the Luther League of the United Lutheran Church, and in the evening the business was taken up, and lantern slides were shown.

There were about 34 delegates and a few members of the congregation present.

A CRY FOR MERCY

To the readers of The Wetaskiwin Times:

We appeal to you in the name of Him who said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and to ask in behalf of a calamity stricken family near Pigeon Lake whose house burned down last week, and practically everything they had, leaving them destitute. There are three children, ages eight, six and three.

Let us, who are enjoying a good warm home, show our sympathy and thanks to Almighty God for His protection and care, by helping this unfortunate family.

Leave donations at the U.F.A. Store with the manager, E. Peterson, and they will be acknowledged in The Wetaskiwin Times.

Respectfully,
AARON PETERSON.

The Ardrossan Times has this to say of Ghanville Davies, the Welsh baritone, in the presentation of Handel's "Samson" at St. Andrew's, Scotland: "The outstanding success of the evening was the singing of Mr. Ghanville Davies, a popular bass from Wales, who came with a big reputation and at once won the good opinion of his audience. He took the double role of Harapha, the giant of Gath, and Manoah, Samson's father. In the former character he displayed all the arrogance and boastfulness of a tyrant, and in the latter reproduced all the grief and sorrow of an old man broken by bereavement and misfortune. It was a great achievement. He has a colorful voice and puts something more than mere technique into his singing. At the United Church, February 13th next.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

After the Guide meeting was opened last Wednesday evening, each patrol went into their corners, and for ten minutes reviewed any Guide work they wished. Each leader then took a group of girls and tested them in the Morse code. Later in the evening the girls sang some songs, then sat in horseshoe formation while Kathleen Walker read a story. The meeting was brought to a close with the usual saluting of the officers.

EARLY CHICKENS

Mr. A. B. Lord of the Star Store staff, is the proud owner of a brood of chickens which were hatched on Sunday, February 3rd. Mr. Lord is a poultry fancier and specializes in Barred Rocks. The fact that the mother hen brought out her family during the recent 40 below zero weather would indicate that this breed is particularly suited for early hatching.
